Also Caught It-Many Seasick-Nobody Hurt The American liner New York, which arrived Saturday night and anchored outside the Hook, had an entry in her log about the pheomenal cyclone that destroyed Galveston and then whisked across the continent and danced into the open sea from the Newfoundand coast on Wednesday night. The Chief officer was in charge of the bridge when the New York ran into the tumult late on Thursday ight on the easterly edge of the Banks. The atre of the blow had gone to the northward of the ship's course, leaving her heavy west, northwest and southwest gales to battle against. The seas were colossal and all who were not professional ocean-crossers and able bodied were forced to keep to their berths for nearly hirty-six hours. Miss Elizabeth Marbury, playwright and play broker, was a passenger by the New York. She says that the conduct the sea was very ungentlemanly and that none of the women was able to go about while the storm was raging. She has been across the Atlantic thirty-seven times and never, never efore was so impolitely treated by it. The wave crests as they thumped on the deck sounded like heavy artillery. Many voyagers were sick, but nobody was hurt.

She says she is going to take a part in a unique sort of play, the name which will be announced later by Charles Frohman. Her part, she says, is outside her sual line, but she hopes to do it justice. The will be produced late in October or early cvember. Miss De Wolfe kept house ersailles and declares that housekeeping play will be produced late in October or early in November. Miss De Wolfe kept house it Versailles and declares that housekeeping in the French style is very easy and agreeable. M. H. De Young, President of the National Board of Commissioners to the Paris Exposition, was also a passenger by the New York. He went to the Exposition in April. He said:

'In spite of adverse criticism the Paris Exposition is the greatest the world has ever seen. I fear that the critics have been more or less inexperienced. I was surprised to see certain extensions of intelligence and prominence. In the departments of manufactures, science and art, the display was simply perfect. The American exhibits were particularly fine and the American exhibitors received one-third of all the awards of 2000 out of 6,000. The Americans were the latifornians exceeded all other Americans in the lavishness of their hospitality. California, the other that of the Paris and the results y would have been less criticism on the part American visitors." assengers by the New York were the

The New York was belated half a day by the storm, as was also the Holland American twin screw Statendam, which got up to her Hoboken pler from Rotterdam last night, instead of in the morning, as is her habit in pleasant weather, she ran into the blow on Wednesday night off the Banks. To quote her log, she had "four hours of a cyclone from south-southeast to south southwest, blowing with terrific fury". The ship sustained no damage and nobody was hurt.

Elect a Majority of the Delegates to the Con-Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. HAVANA, Sept. 16 .- The full results of yesterday's elections for members of the Constitutional Convention are not yet known. The returns for Havana province, however, are practically all in. Gen. Lacret heads the list with 12,767 votes, followed by Mayor Rodriguez. Senores Gener, Manuel Sanguilly, Nunez, Berriel. Tamayo and Zayas in the order given. senor Zavas polled 9,283 votes. Returns from municipalities are yet to be received, but it is not believed that they will change the sult in this province.

The National party has elected six reprentatives. Señores Sanguilly and Berriel are fusionists. The ninth delegate, Senor Pierra. elongs to the Democratic Union. He polled 5.560 votes. The Fusioniste did not vote consistently, as is evidenced by the fact that Sanguilly obtained 11,043 votes against Pierra's 5500. It is probable that many Nationals roted for Sanguilly, and also that many Republicans voted for their own men, thus spliting the Fusionist ticket.

Out of 50 000 voters in Havana province probably considerably less than half voted. There was less interest yesterday than in the preceding elections. Though the leaders were very keen the people were somewhat indifferent. The National party, however, showed extraordinary discipline. In some of the country districts the electors voted as one man for the five national candidates, not a single vote being east for their opponents. The Fusionists are satisfied with the result in Havana city, where hey say they received their due, but they say they should have shown more strength in the country districts.

The Conservatives express no regret for not going to the polls. They say they have shown that they have some strength, and if the Cuban officials had been Conservatives they would probably have done far better.

It is probably that in Pinar del Rio Señores Quesada, Quilez and Ruis Rivera have been elected, and in Puerto Principe, Señores Silva and Salvador Cisneros The Cubans like the ballot system very much. The men so far elected will probably prove very friendly, though Senor Sanguilly may prove to be tur-

Warner, with A. E. Spiker, a fellow workman, was on a pole on Washington avenue stringing wires when by mistake he grasped a live wire. He gave a loud cry and fell back against the pole. Spiker hastened down the pole and in a few minutes returned with other linemen. ROOSEVELT'S DAY OF REST.

UNEVENTFUL TRIP FROM BISMARCK TO MEDORA, MONTANA

Make Speeches, but at the Various Stations He Shock Hands With the People and Saw a Lot of Men He Had Known on the Ranges.

day of friendly greeting and a renewal of reminiscence of the border life for Gov. Roosevelt. It has been a most favorable break in the strain of constant political talk and campaigning. Senator Hansbrough told Col. Roosevelt yesterday that the people of this part of the country had looked for his coming ever since the Philadelphia Convention and would be grievously disappointed if he did not speak to them, even though it was Sunday. The Governor said that he could not help it. He realized that a certain number of stops must be made for railroad On such occasions, if there were people at the stations, he supposed that they would feel rather hurt if he did not go out and shake hands with them, and he was very glad to have the chance to do so. It would be everlastingly unfriendly of him to return all the past kindnesses of his old neighbors by staying shut up in the "Minnesota" while his train was standing in their presence.

It was arranged that all haste should be made reaching Medora, the nearest station to the ranches the Governor used to own on the Little Missouri. There he had a thoroughly happy afternoon. His old friend, Sheriff Folles, had a horse waiting for him and he went off up into the plateaus of the Bad Lands and was alone much of the afternoon-

At Dickinson, N. D., where a stop was ade for water, folks had come in from the country for miles around to see the train pass through. They were headed by two Lutheran ministers from the German settlement in the back country and the pastor of the Dickinson Congregational Church ernor went down among the people and found mong them a lot of men he had known on the There was a company of the first North Dakota regiment camped down near They remained in company formation until the Governor went over and were eight or ten men in the crowd with whom the Governor had worked in the round-up and five times as many with whom he had speaking acquaintance. A large delegation of Germans was brought up to the Governor and he spoke with many of them in German. From Dickinson the train ran down into the Bad Lands. On the top of the rise that ends at Friburg is a sign, with letters two feet high, inscribed with its name, and a sidetrack, nothing at Friburg is a sign, with letters two feet high, inscribed with its name, and a sidetrack, nothing more. There is not a house in sight, though the ground is high above the surrounding country. A mile beyond is where 'Bad Lands Charley' stands guard over his domain, as he has stood, gun in hand, since the waters washed the earth away from the petrified roots that make his form. Almost before any one could realize it the train was whipping in and out of the buttes and the guilles where the hills make faces at mankind and the rocks blaze out on paths of blue-gray sage brush.

Joe Ferris, who was one of the Governor's men on the Elkhorn Hanch, went with him on the Minnesota from Bismarck to Medora. They sat side by side in front of the windows, and every twisted, craggy butte reminded them of their cow-punching days. Joe wondered if the Governor did remember how 'the Pike,' who was the bad man of Medora twelve years ago. The Governor did remember how 'the Pike,' who was the bad man of Medora twelve years ago. The Governor did remember how 'the Pike,' who was the bad man of Medora twelve years ago. The Governor did remember how 'the Pike,' who was the bad man of Medora twelve years ago. The Governor did remember how 'the Pike,' who was the bad man of Medora twelve years ago. The Governor did remember how 'the Pike,' who was the bad man of Medora twelve years ago. The Governor did remember how 'the Pike,' who was the bad man of Medora twelve years ago. The Governor and had offered to lick the town, one at a time. He licked two, but Snyder got him down and knelt on his chest and pounded his face with a rock as big as a coffee cup. Of course the Governor and everybody thought that 'the Pike' was gone for good, but Snyder knew him better, for he pounded and pounded away. At last he yelled most plaintively: "Somebody come and hold him while I get off; he's tiring me out."

The Governor wanted to know what had become of Hell Roaring Bill Jones, who was Sheriff when the Governor was deputy Sheriff, and Ferris was moved to lunatic and kept him in the jail. Snyder corum considerable, and sometimes they used let the lunatic out on the prairie and let Snyrun him down, giving the lunatic forty an hundred yards start. If the lunatic higher than the property of the start of the same and catch him, but they ne did. But Bill got awfully tired of keen to take a horse and catch him, but they never did. But Bill got awfully tired of keeping that lunatic. There was a mean man named Bixby, the one the Governor knew was killed afterward, who kept coming around the jain nights and whispering to the lunatic that he'd let him out, and the lunatic could skull Hell Roaring Bull and get away. But Bill fixed Bixby. He rigged a rope around the outside of the jail and fixed it on the latch of the door so that the next time Bixby came sneaking around the Sheriff pulled the string and the lunatic got out. That was the time when Bixby's nose was bitten off.

At Medora forty or more of Gov. Roosevelt's old friends were gathered on the platform to meet him. There was the widow Roberts, with a lot of her daughters, who were children when the Governor was riding the sidren when the Governor was riding the nges. There was George Myers, who took e Governor by the arm and hustled him win the platform, and said to him with the tmost gravity:

"Do you remember the time wewere out after sountain sneep and I made green biscuits at you?"

for you?"
"Ido," said the Governor. "Ido, George, and I remember the time you fried the beans with rosin instead of lard.
George cackled for joy and said: "Well now, Governor, I was thinking it would be a good idea to get that man Bryan up here and see what that kind of biscuit would do for him."

George cacked for Joy and see what that kind of biscuit would be a good idea to get that man Bryan up here and see what that kind of biscuit would do for him.

Along came one Owens, known to all the Little Missouri country as a life-long Democrat. We was going to have a convention of Medora Democrats yesterday afternoon to decide what we was to do about your nomination, but I got kind of full. Bill. you remember my brother, he got kind of full, and when the old fellow over the river come over, which he had told him to be Secretary, we was both asleep and he couldn't wake us up, and there was no-hody to make a motion, and the darned convention was adjourned. We ain't feeling strong on Democracy this year, somehow.

Ed Dietz, an old hunting crony of the Governor's, limped up. Ed wasn't feeling good. A recent difficulty with a bucking horse had jammed him up some, and his feelings felt worse than his ribs. There was a still pending difference of opinion as to whether he had been thrown or whether the horse had lain down on him and rolled him off, which no man can well help. Nearly every man in the gathering had some incident for the Governor and a two-horse team for the tenderfoot bunch, to wit the Hon. John Proctor Clarke of the city of New York and Col. Curtis Guild of the city of Boston. They went oneway and the Governor wentanother. From time to time afterward he was seen on the edge of one or another of the buttes that tower over the little settlement. He came back in two hours with his face burned and his eyes sparking, his right arm swinging free, cowboy fashion, as he galloped in.

It was good to hear what Foley and Folles and Dietz and Farris and the rest had to say of Pettigrew's remark the other day that he didn't believe Roosevelt could rope a steer if he tried. They did not say things about the Senator that could well be repeated in The Sun, but the general drift of their remarks was that if ever they wanted help in a round-up or for any kind of range work. Teddy Roosevelt was plenty every day of his ing there with their hats whirling over their heads.

It was but a run of an hour or two before the train was cut of the Bad Lands and in the open prairie at Wibaux. A stop was made for orders and the Governor met old man Brothy, who was with him on the famous occasion when a bad man undertook to buildoze the Governor as a tenderfoot in a Wibaux rum hole, and, as old man Brophy says. "got such a hit that he clean forgot how to shoot." The appearance of the place was almost a shock to the Governor, so much had it changed. He said that it was 200 years ahead of the point in civilization where it was when he last saw it. A decent hotel was in place of the dugout burrow in which old man Brophy saw the bad man get hit. There was a church with green sod around it and a fence. It might have been in a New England town.

Altogether during the day the train stopped at eight stations. At nearly every station ministers came with their people to greet the Governor. Not a word of politics was spoken by any one who came with Gov. Roosevelt, and so far as could be helped, except among the Governor's old friends at Medora, no one was allowed to talk politics to him.

DOWIEITES RUN OUT OF TOWN. Mob Stones a House in Mansfield, Ohio, Where Zion Services Were Being Held.

MANSFIELD, Ohio, Sept. 18.-The most violent outbreak against the Dowieites since July occurred to-day. Ephraim Basinger, a Dowie elder came into town quietly yesterday and was in hiding at the home of E. H. Leiby, a local member of the Zion Church. He was GLENDIVE, Mon., Sept. 16.-It has been a conducting religious services at Leiby's home to-day when a mob gathered and began to stone the house, the telephone wires from the house having previously been cut by the mob to prevent the sending in of a call for the police, Hearing of the trouble, James P. Seward, legal adviser to the municipal authorities, went to the Leiby residence where the mob was con-

the Letby residence where the mob was continually increasing in numbers and found it advisable to notify the authorities of the situation and to call for police protection.

Meantime, Elder Basinger had become very much alarmed for his personal safety and desired to go to the station and get away on the first train. Attorney Seward addressed the mob and told of Basinger's desires, and upon assurances that no molestation would be offered, Basinger and Seward started for the train, the mob accompanying them. They arrived a few minutes late for the westbound train on the Pennsylvania kalfroid, and Bassinger was taken to the waiting room where he was under guard of the police.

Meanwhile the mob decided that it would be a good idea to chase E. H. Leiby, whose home has been headquarters for the visiting Dowle elders, out of town. A large crowd went to his home and broke in a panel of the kitchen door and broke down another door and took forcible possession of Leiby. His wife begged that Frank Calver, a neighbor and Dowleite, be allowed to go along to see that no harm befell her husband. The mob thereupon took charge of Calver, and the possession started for the station again. On the way there were heated discussions as to the propriety of taking the men to the gas house and tarring and feathering them, but milder counsel prevailed, and they were escorted to the station where Basinger was under guard. At 1:45 o'clock all three boarded a train thoroughly frightened and glad to get away from the mob

FREEHOLD MAN'S SUICIDE.

He Had Shot at His Wife and Fled-Body

He notified Coroner Vanderveer, who empanelled a jury, and proceeded to the place where the body was found. They found that Grantz came to his death from a bullet fired into the mouth and that the body had been in the water about two days. Grantz was a nickel polisher by trade, but recently became proprietor of the West Freehold Rotel. Trouble arose between him and his wife. Grantz was arrested and his wife became proprietor. Last Friday afternoon Grantz, while under the influence of liquor, visited the hotel, and, drawing a revolver, fired a bullet that just grazed his wife's head. She fainted, and Grantz, evidently thinking he had killed her, fled. A warrant was issued for his arrest, but no trace of him could be found until the finding of the body to-day. nearby, discovered the body. He notified

You will never find our Doctor out. He is here to give advice without charge to those who need him - to those who don't, sometimes. He doesn't always recommend the Ayer medicines, because the Aver medicines are not "cure-alls."

Perhaps if we tear a leaf from his correspondence it will show you what we mean. Here is a letter which came last March.

DEAR DR. AYER:

I want your advice for my little boy. He is getting very thin. He has no appe-tite. He is fifteen years old. When he was four years old he had lung fever, but his health was good until two years ago. Since then he is failing fast. The doctors here say he has the bronchitis. He spits all the time awful bad. The spits are big, thick, and white. Yours truly, Mrs. MARGARET MURPHY,

March 30, 1900. Kinbrae, Minn." And this is the way the Doctor answered Mrs. Murphy:

"DEAR MADAM: We enclose our book on The Throat and Lungs, in which we trust you will find just the information you desire. "You should begin at once the use of this Cherry Pectoral for your son, giving it in moderate doses. Then procure some good preparation of cod-liver oil, as Scott's Emulsion, and give him that, as well. Pay particular attention to his diet, giving him such nourishing foods as rare steak, lamb chops, good milk, eggs, etc. Above all, keep him out of doors all that the weather permits. There is nothing that will do him more good than plenty of fresh air. Let him live out of doors all that is possible. By carrying out these general suggestions we shall hope to hear soon that your son is improving in every way. Very truly yours, J. C. AYER." April 5, 1900.

You see, it wasn't only the Ayer medicines that we recommended. The first idea of the Doctor was to cure that boy. The result is told in this letter:

"My little boy has improved so much since I received your advice that I want to write and tell you how thankful I am. "When I first wrote you, on March 30, he only weighed 50 pounds, but now he weighs 82 pounds; and all this gain since the 8th of April, when I first began to follow your directions. Please let me thank you again for what you have done for my boy.

July 17, 1900. MARGARET MURPHY."

Perhaps it was the codliver oil; perhaps it was the Cherry Pectoral. Probably it was both. But, more than either, it was the good, sound advice the Doctor gave in the first place. We are here to serve you in just the same way, and we will tell you the medicine for your case or tell you what medicines to avoid.

Five out of ten of our correspondents need a doctor rather than a prepared medicine, and we tell them so. If the doctors only knew it, we are working with them every McKinley Lilinois in 1896 by 142,498 plurality and Indiana by 18,181 plurality. In 1896 McKinley carried Kentucky by the slender plurality of 281, West Virginia by 11,487, Maryland by 32,224, Delaware by 3,360. New Jersey by 87,692, and New York by 268,469. The Republicans concede that the outlook in some of these States indicates a hard struggle and a close vote, but they consider that any hopes of the Democratic managers of getting West Virginia, New Jersey and New York rest on a very slight foundation. Speaking of the situation in New Jersey, National Committeeman Frankin Murphy said yesterday that the outlook is most favorable to the Republicans. "The opening meetings of the campaign this past week in Jersey City and Elizabeth, said Mr. Murphy, "were pronounced successes. Both were overflow meetings, and both equally remarkable for enthusiasm. This is worthy of notice, as showing that all the different kinds of communities are equally affected, for those two cities are in different sections and their communities are very distinct in character the one from the other. The apathy which was noticed earlier in the campaign was due, I think, simply to the hot weather. At all events, there has been a great awakening of energy among the New Jersey Republicans during the last few days and at the State headquarters we have been kept very how, with genilorities for speakers. consider that any hopes of the Democratic Republicans during the last few days and at the State headquarters we have been kept very busy with applications for speakers, documents, &c. It is a fact, however, that the Democrats are also in a regular cyclone of activity in New Jersey this year, and are pouring in supplies of political ammunition in unlimited quantities, and we have no expectation of equaling now the record-breaking Republican majority of 87,000 in 1896, especially as our majority in the State was only 6,000 in the local Senatorial election of 1898. In 1898 also the Democrats made special and herculean efforts, and the Republicans having no national issue at stake were not so active and united as in 1896. But this year both parties will do their best and I expect the Republicans to come out ahead by a good majority. This opinion is based partly upon my personal knowledge and description of the fold Democrats.

having no national issue at stake were not so active and united as in 1896. But this year both parties will do their best and I expect the Republicans to come out shead by a good majority. This opinion is based partly upon my personal knowledge and observation of the Gold Democrats, who are numerous in New Jersey. Some of them doubtless have gone back to Bryan, but I have good reason to believe that most of them will vote again for McKinley this year." All accounts received at Republican headquarters thus far speak of probable Republican gains, rather than losses, in West Virginia, and it is understood that the Democratic managers privately allow that their information is to the same effect.

It is noticed that the National Honest Money League of Gold Democrats in Baltimore, which did such service in 1896, has just been received did such service in 1896, has just been received romer entucky, the margin is so narrow that neither side can speak with confidence, but a large number of communications have been received from Republicans in that State, and from Democrats too, saying that Kentucky will almost surely vote for McKinley again. The battle in Delaware will be hard fought, but if the Republicans can all get together and keep together, it is hard to see why they should not be able to repeat their victory of 1806. Delaware is considered at Republican headquarters a very important State, not so much on account of her electoral vote as because she has Senators to elect, and if the Republicans should lose the State they would lose both these Senators.*

The latestadvices at Republican headquarters also represent constantly improving Republican prospects in Kansas, Nebraska and the Rocky Mountain States, and the news from all the Pactific Coast States is uniformly favorable to McKinley and Roosevelt.

Just about these days one must expect to read in the Bryanite newspapers alleged polls of States giving rousing majorities (on paper) to Bryan. In most instances these polls are made up in the offices of the newspape

NO HYDROPHOBIA IN ENGLAND Good Effect of the Regulations Regarding the

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.-The State Departnent has received from Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, a memorandum as to the importation of dogs into Great Britain. By enforcing the strictest regulations in regard to muzzling and the importation of dogs the disease of rabies in dogs and hydrophobia in man has been practically stamped out in England. Under the present ruling of the Board of Agriculture licenses must be obtained for the landing of dogs in great Britain and a penalty of £20 and the possible seizure of the dog is enforced when a license is not obtained. Masters of ressels are liable to prosecution if dogs are landed illegally, and cannot accept dogs for shipment to Great Britain unless the license is shown at the port of embarkation. Imported dogs are isolated for from four to six months and are moved about only upon license from the board. When taken out for exercise they must be properly muzzled and in charge of competent persons. The memorandum says:

"The experience of the board has clearly shown that the frequent movement of pet dogs to and from the Continent involves this country in serious danger, inasmuch as a pet dog may become infected with rables without the ease of rabies in dogs and hydrophobia in to and from the Continent involves this country in serious danger, inasmuch as a pet dog may become infected with rabies without the knowledge and despite the utmost crr on the part of its owner. It is therefore a matter of great importance to owners of dogs in Great Britain that dogs from abroad should only be admitted in instances where it has been satisfactorily established that some useful purpose will be served by their admission, or where a pet dog would otherwise be separated from its owner for a prolonged period. Pet dogs should not be taken abroad and thus exposed to the risk of infection, excepting cases of real necessity."

FIREMEN OVERCOME BY SMOKE. Blaze in Brooklyn Started by Peanut Macaroon Furnace.

Fire was discovered in the cellar of the threestory brick building, 76 Fort Greene place, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. It was caused by an overheated furnace used in the manufacture of peanut macaroons by A. Van Pragg, who has his store on the ground floor. The dense smoke made it extremely difficult for the firemen to fight the flames and several of them were overcome. The flames extended to the four-story brick building at 711 Fulton street. Three alarms were sent in. The damage is es-timated at $25,000.

M'KINLEY MUCH IMPROVED. His Complete Rest Restores His Usual Good

Health and Spirits. CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 16 .- President McKinley s very much better to-day and seemed to be in his usual good health and spirits, the abso- 540 East Fourteenth street, after taking what ite rest and quiet of yesterday having had was probably some poison. He left the dinner the desired effect. He remained just about as quiet to-day, however, and secured a great deal of rest and sleep. A few callers were received, but they were personal friends and neighbors who called to see either the President or Mrs. McKinley in a neighborly fashion. During the morning a drive was taken to West Lawn Cemetery to place some flowers on the graves of the McKinley children and of other relatives buried there. In the afternoon another short drive was taken about the city by President and Mrs. McKinley. The only distant visitor during the day was Judge McAtee of the Indian Territory, who merely made an appointment to see the President on Monday morning. No programme s announced for the week, but it is expected that a number of well-known men in the campaign will be hereduring the campaign. Chairman Dick will probably be here to talk over the Ohio situation. There are still no indications at the house that the gates are going to be thrown open to delegations, though it is known that many of them would like to arrange a date. It is understood that the President and those assoclated with him discourage all such overtures on the ground that McKinley is here subject to a call to Washington at a moment's notice and hence in no position to make dates ahead. He also remains averse to entering upon a speaking part in the campaign.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Sept. 16.-Early this. morning the dry goods store of Young & Striker in the Miller block was gutted by fire, entailing a loss of over $30,000. The furniture store of Hanson & Dickson, the crockery store of Hugh Hanson & Dickson, the crockery store of Hugh Donlan and the book store of Seeley Conover were badly damaged. A number of offices on the second floor of the block were damaged by water and smoke. The entire loss is estimated at $40,000. Amos Brown and wife, who occupied living quarters in the block, narrowly escaped being burned. Their household effects were destroyed. The property is fully covered by insurance.

TOOK A CAPSULE AND DIED. Drug Clerk's Parents Think He Swallowed

Thomas Burnett, a drug clerk, 21 years old, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at his home, was probably some poison. The left the diffier table, saying that he had a bad headache and was going to take a capsule. He brought the capsule out from his room and swallowed it. Soon afterward he became ill and before a doctor arrived was dead. The young man's parents regard his death as an accident. They said he had no reason for committing suicide. An autopsy will be made to determine the cause of death.

From London Tit-Bits. Of late years some Turkish households have become considerably modernized in their arrangements, even aping the ways of Paris. But conservative Turks frown on such newfangled ways.

But conservative Turks frown on such new-fangled ways.

In a conservative Turkish household, rich or poor, no tables are used and chairs are unknown. Instead, there is a huge wooden frame in the middle of the room about eighteen inches high. When the family—the men only—assembles to dine cushions are brought, placed upon the frame, and on these the members seat themselves tailor fashion, forming a circle around a large tray.

The tray is a very large wooden, plated or silver affair, according to the financial condition of the family, and thereon is deposited a capacious bowl. About it are ranged saucers of sliced cheese, anchovies, caviare and sweetmeats. Interspersed with these are goblets of sherbet, pieces of hot unleavened bread and boxwood spoons.

Knives, forks and plates do not figure in the service, but each has a napkin spread upon his knees, and every one, armed with a spoon, helps himself.

The bowl is presently borne away and another dish takes its place. This time it is a conglomeration of substantials stewed together, such as mutton, game or poultry. The mess has been divided by the cook into portions, which are dipped up with the aid of a spoon or with the fingers.

For the host to fish out of the mess a wing or leg of a fowl and present it to a guest is considered a great compliment, and for a Turk of high degree to roll a morsel between his fingers and put it into the mouth of a visitor is looked upon as good manners.
